Fascination of Public Life Lies in Wholesome Opportunities It Offers

By WILLIAM H. TAFT
Former President of the United States

Would I advise a young man to seek public office?

That depends upon what kind of a man he is, his bent of mind and what his taste is. My first public office was a splendid place for me, as it was a rough-and-tumble experience in the law at the time of life when I was ready for it. I was taught the necessity of facts and how to get them. I learned to search for truth and to value evidence. The training I then received has been of the highest importance to me ever since. Truth, that is what the world needs all the time.

Besides, I was on my feet nearly every day, making speeches to the court and being drilled in readiness, alertness and thoroughness. As I look back on it now, I know my experience of those days was the best I could have had at the time. Criminal law is not difficult to learn, and I enjoyed its practice, although I never did other than to prosecute criminals.

One who has engaged in business must feel the satisfaction of achievement and the pleasure of independence for himself and his household. But all occupations have their ups and downs. The fascinations of public life are to be found in the power it gives and the wholesome opportunities it offers. If one has been fortunate and can look back on things well done, it compensates for the loss of many others. It is a joy to do things, to be useful and helpful.

Worth Careful Thought

Do you read the label to know whether your baking powder is made from cream of tartar or, on the other hand, from alum or phosphate?

Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, derived from grapes, and adds to the food only wholesome qualities.

Other baking powders contain alum or phosphate, both of mineral origin, and used as substitutes for cream of tartar because of their cheapness.

Never sacrifice quality and healthfulness for low price.

Horsepower.

Horsepower, which is a term adopted as a unit in estimating force, is strictly theoretical and is much greater than most horses have the strength to perform. It is the force required to raise 33,000 pounds one foot high in one minute. A rough way to estimate the power of a steam engine is to multiply together the area of the piston in inches, the mean steam pressure in pounds per square inch, the length of stroke in feet and the number of strokes per minute and divide the product by 33,000.

Exceptional.

He—Would you say that Mrs. Gigoble was an eloquent talker? She—Yes. Indeed; and the best part of it is that she frequently knows what she is talking about.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

GRABBING MORE CHINESE LAND.

Washington.—Seizure by French troops of an additional square mile of territory contiguous to the French concession in Tien Tsin in defiance of the Chinese Foreign Office, just reported in cable dispatches from Peking, brings to the fore one of the most complicated and at the same time most romantic points of conflict between Old China and the western world. Such incidents have been frequent in the history of China's foreign settlements, however, and officials here indicated that as an international affair little importance was attached to France's action.

BLUNDER BY FELLOW WORKMAN

Bethlehem, Penn.—As a result, it is alleged, of a mistake of a fellow workman turning on the current, three men were electrocuted at the plant of the Bethlehem Steel Company and four or five others narrowly escaped a similar fate.

VILLA TO QUIT IF FIRST CHIEF WILL

tions and leave Mexico if Venustiano Carranza is deposed from power, according to information just received here from sources that have proved trustworthy. The removal of the first chief can be accomplished only by the coalition of his generals against him and this, it is authoritatively asserted, is under way.

Sensational stories from El Paso have been reaching Washington for several weeks to the effect that a revolt against Carranza was being organized in his army, but it is declared that these have not emanated from men who knew the real inside of the efforts being made to unseat Carranza and eliminate Villa as a factor in Mexican affairs.

Promoters of the revolt have their candidates in mind, the names of Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez and General Felipe Angeles figuring largely in the discussion. The intention is to unite finally on one man of their type and it is believed that the selection can be made without friction.

It is said that the movement to overthrow Carranza is independent of anything the United States may or do, or not do. The conferences of the Mexican-American commission are not even of interest to these gentlemen. It is added, for they say that Carranza would lack the power to make effective any agreement the commission might reach.

The position of General Alvarado Obregon in relation to the plots to eliminate Carranza appears indefinite. It is the ambition of Obregon, however, to be president of Mexico, and should plans which unquestionably are in the making succeed, General Trevino, Carranza's commander in the north, might become supreme over the armies of Mexico.

The definite and circumstantial promise alleged to have been made by Villa, recently, that he would retire if Carranza were overthrown, also was made by him long ago, before the recognition of Carranza by the United States. It was declared at the time by enemies of Carranza that this action of the administration had completely dissipated any hope of permanent peace in Mexico. It would be followed by a lull, it was predicted, but sooner or later the inability of Carranza to acify the country would be demonstrated.

Apparently these predictions were made on some trustworthy knowledge of Mexican conditions.

What would he give for the coffee you serve?

Like a million other women, you can serve coffee that he would give most anything to have—coffee which starts the day "right" for all.

Everyone loves the rich flavor of Arbuckles' Coffee. Of all the coffees in America today, it is by far the most popular!

One woman says: "My husband used to swallow his coffee and hurry off. Now we have Arbuckles' and you'd think it was Sunday the way he lingers over his breakfast."

Until you try Arbuckles' you will never know what a difference good coffee can make in your home.

Today there are whole towns where Arbuckles is practically the only coffee used. In one State, alone, in a year, four pounds of Arbuckles' Coffee was used for every man, woman and child in the State—four times as many pounds of coffee as the population of the State! Arbuckle Bros., New York.
